The Homestead (now Redwalls) is a large house in Weaverham Road, Sandiway, Cheshire, England. It has been designated by English Heritage as a Grade II listed building. The house was designed by the Chester architect John Douglas and built in about 1906–07 on land he owned himself in Sandiway, the village of his birth.[2] The house and stables were built for B. J. Sanby, who bought the land from Douglas. By the 1990s its name had been changed to Redwalls and it was being used as a children's home. As of 2009 it is a private nursing home

Architecture

The house is constructed in Ruabon brick and has a chipped and rendered upper storey; the roofs are in Lakeland green slate and the chimneys are brick. Its north (entrance) front has five bays. The outer bays project forwards and are gabled with finials. In the centre is a projecting porch with pilasters, over which is a balustrade including a panel containing a carved griffon and motto. The garden front has a pair of two-storey canted bay windows. Brick extensions were added to the east of the building during the 20th century.

LINCOLNSHIRE ARCHIVES COMMITTEE ARCHIVISTS' REPORT' 21

16th March 1969 - 31st March 1970

One bundle of deeds relates to the purchase in 1809 of a piece of land of 371 square yards in Sutton St. Mary for the purpose of building a Methodist chapel. A plan on the release shows that it was surrounded on all sides by other owners' lands but, a right of way was given from the turnpike road. The purchase was made by five farmers, a cordwainer, labourer, linen-weaver, merchant, pattern-maker and publican from neighbouring villages. By '1811 the land, with its newly erected chapel, was conveyed to trustees to permit persons appointed by the Methodist Yearly Conference to preach and perform acts of worship according to the liturgy of the Church of England as practised by Methodist disciples and adherents to the tenets of John Wesley, "so as no person so appointed shall utter or expound any other doctrines than are contained in John Wesley's notes on the New Testament and his four published volumes of sermons", the trustees having power to appoint a steward who could let pews and collect or receive rents. They were also given powers to dispose of the site if a larger one was needed or the chapel failed, a provision which was made use of in 1840 because a more commodious chapel had been erected, the old chapel being sold to Kemp Sanby of Sutton St. Mary draper (H.D 71/r/58/1-6) *
